Carl loved golf, darts, music (he was a disc jockey in his younger years), dancing, and just being involved. He was recently recognized by the community for all his efforts, receiving the Bette Baeshore Humanitarian Award (2015) for his selfless dedication to others. Carl is survived by his loving wife Lynn, who shared 30 wonderful years with her husband. Carl is also survived by three loving stepsons: Ralph (Dian) Ganeles of Colorado, Jimmy Ganeles of Florida, and

I worked for Carl from 1986 to 1996 as his assistant at NBC. I will never forget making his travel arrangements which always had Option A B C and then some. He had an infectious laugh that would make you smile all the time. Will never have another boss like him. He was a gem

My sincere condolences to Lynn and Carl's family. He was a wonderful boss and friend, and certainly, "one of a kind". His optimism and enthusiasm for life was infectious. Many years ago while working with Carl on numerous business problems, I had a dream that I had died and gone to heaven. While proceeding to check in, I noticed people walking around with defective halos. Off to the side was Carl. He related that he had gotten me a slot in Purchasing and we would be working on the Halo project. Rest in peace dear friend.
