I first met Kaye back in 1969 in Michigan when I was 19, newly married and my Dad brought her to meet me and my siblings. He married her and raised her toddler son as his own. They stayed married until his death in 1998 and all through those years she was nothing but kind, generous and loving. She was the only grandmother our children ever knew because our mom died in 1980. My dad and Kaye both got saved, joined the church and were very active in their church. It was such an answer to me and my whole families prayers. I am glad that she remarried after dad died and got a chance for continued happiness in Florida with her husband Bob. To God be the glory. His kindness and love for us is never ending. Donna Hope, Evans, Ga.
